Federal Odometer Disclosure

Federal odometer disclosure laws went into effect in 1989, followed by the Florida laws in 1990 (F.S. 319.225). It took some states 8 years to abide by the federal laws. In order for an odometer reading to be considered a federal odometer disclosure it must contain specific elements.

- Current odometer reading
- Date the odometer was read
- Seller's certification as to the status of the odometer:
 - Actual
 - In excess of mechanical limits
 - Not actual
- Seller's name and address
- Buyer's name and address
- Signature of both buyer and seller
- Printed name of both buyer and seller
- Description of the vehicle
 - Make
 - Model
 - Year
 - Body type
 - Vehicle Identification Number

Images 1 & 2– Florida Conforming Title

- A title that contains all the elements of a federal odometer disclosure.
- If the title is a conforming title, the reassignment must occur on the title (if there are reassignments available).
